RUMOR HAS TROTZKY KILLED

Third and Successful Attempt Said to Have Been Made Near Helsingfors on Life of Lenine's Chief Aide in Soviet Russia.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, Jan. 1.—An unconfirmed rumor that Leon Trotzky, associate of Lenine in the Bolshevik government, has been murdered near Helsingfors, according to a dispatch from that city today.

Peace negotiations between the Soviet government and the Baltic States at Dorpat are said to have been broken off.

Rebellion has broken out among the Bolshevik troops at Narva, 100 miles west of Petrograd, according to another report from Helsingfors. Bolshevik artillery is reported to be violently shelling the city with shrapnel.

Trotzky was the chief aide of Lenine in establishing the Soviet regime in Russia. He was in the United States when the movement was first undertaken, but managed to get back to Russia after being detained for a time by the Canadian authorities at Halifax. This is not the first time that Trotzky has been reported assassinated. Attempts were previously made upon his life in both Potrograd and Moscow, but they were unsuccessful.

Trotzky was assigned to the post of minister of war in the Bolshevik cabinet and is responsible for discipline. His real name is Leber Braunstein. He was sentenced to exile in Siberia by the former Czar, but later was liberated and went to Berlin.

At the outbreak of the war he was deported from Germany, going to Switzerland. From there he went to France, eventually migrating to the United States.

PROBE TURNS UP REAL WHISKEY

15,000 Cases of Kentucky Product Sold Illegally in New York—Four Indictments Found Against Wood Alcohol Purveyors—Were to Make Half Million Dollars Worth.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, Jan. 1.—The investigation into the wood alcohol "whiskey" traffic in this city has led to the revelation that about 15,000 cases of real whiskey has been brought here from Kentucky and sold illegally to saloonkeepers in small quantities, it was learned today.

The wood alcohol "whiskey" ring is said to have manufactured, or prepared to manufacture, nearly $500,000 worth of the poisonous liquid.

The various groups of "whiskey" manufacturers were working independently of each other, however.

Giovanni Batista Cicero, who is alleged to have been involved in the distribution of "whiskey" which caused the deaths of eight persons in Passaic, N. J., was held in $25,000 bail on the charge of conspiring to defeat the wartime prohibition act. Edward G. Ware, of Brooklyn, a relative of Samuel Saleeby, who is said to have been implicated in the sale of the poisoned "whiskey," which caused the deaths of more than three score persons in New England, was also held in $25,000 bond. The charge against him was not divulged.

Four indictments have been returned by the federal grand jury and more are expected. Those indicted are John Lynn, L. Fabian, G. W. Doyle and David S. Souse. Federal Judge Knox issued warrants for the men but it is understood that one of them has disappeared.

In Passaic, N. J., six saloon men have been arrested and held without bail, while practically all of the liquor in the saloons there has been confiscated.

The body was taken to Germantown upon the order of Coroner Hudson of Hudson. A brother of the dead man had the body sent to New York.

NEW YEAR SHOWS BRIGHTEST OUTLOOK FOR PEOPLE OF U. S.

Money In Plenty, No Unemployment or Breadlines and Prospects for Foreign Trade Are Brilliant---Production Keynote to Continued Prosperity.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Jan. 1.—The baby 1920 was born today with a silver spoon in its mouth.

Never before in the history of the United States has the new year found such brilliant prospects of prosperity and profit.

All reports gathered by the various departments of the government indicated today that the year of 1920 will be a banner one.

Money is plentiful and is estimated by the treasury department at more than $5,000,000,000, or $50 per capita of population.

Labor department reports show little or no unemployment and bread lines and soup kitchens are [illegible]. Wages have never been higher. The federal reserve board declares [illegible] employment at unprecedented wages."

[illegible] prospects are brilliant. The reports of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce point that there [illegible] prevent the greatest export business that this country has ever seen. In this connection the federal reserve board says "unfavorable foreign exchange rates are required as likely to bring about a reduction in exports which may necessitate some readjustment of domestic industries."

America will be better dressed this year than ever before, reports collected by the federal reserve board indicate. Future demands upon clothing manufacturers are about normal with an exception I demand for fine grades.

"With goods demand is unprecedented and prices are the highest ever recorded," the federal reserve board declares. It is only in clothing that there is any attempt by Americans to reduce their wearing apparel costs. High prices to some extent check purchases of shoes and manufacturers are proceeding cautiously. While reports show great building activity throughout the United States, the year 1920 does not promise any great relief in the housing situation. Statistics gathered by the department of labor show that there are several million people more [illegible] accommodations and there are a [illegible] of houses. The federal reserve board reports that "the continual rise of building materials" has not reduced building operations but that "rents have advanced very greatly."

Credit expansion, which for a time gave worry to some government officials, is reported by the treasury department to be retarded.

Living costs are still high but the department of justice promises there will be continued reduction of living costs during 1920.

While 1920 faces a great year of grave responsibility, national prosperity must be carefully nurtured and put upon a sound basis.

Governor Harding, of the federal reserve board, warns that there must be a balance between "volume of credit and volume of goods" and growth of business must be in units of dollars.

Production is the keynote of 1920 prosperity, according to Attorney General Palmer and all officials agree that with great production during 1920 there must follow the greatest spending the nation has ever known.

RELATIVES SPEND DAY WITH NEW

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Los Angeles, Calif., Jan. 1.—Harry K. New, Jr., whose trial for the murder of Freda Lesser is nearing its close, spent the New Year's day as he spent Christmas day—in his cell in the county jail.

So far as known, Mr. made no New Year's resolutions, and there was not the semblance of ordinary festivity in his cell as there was last week when he was showered with gifts and spent the day with his mother, Mrs. Lillie M. Berger, and sister, Miss Edna Clancy.

Both Mrs. Berger and Miss Clancy came early and spent the day with Mr. He received a few cards from friends and ate a home cooked meal brought by his mother.

When the trial is resumed tomorrow, the alienists who examined Mr. for the defense, will still be on the stand.

As each is asked a hypothetical question, their testimony is expected to drag.

It was rumored today that Miss Theo Lesser, sister of the murder girl, will likely be called to the trial again before it is over. She expressed a desire to be present, but Miss Clancy testified that her health did not permit.

DRY NEW YEAR SAME HEADACHE

Old Year in New York Went Out in Customary Blaze of Noise, Alcohol and High Prices for Restaurant Prices.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Jan. 1.—A large number of New Yorkers awoke today fully convinced that a "dry" New Year's eve celebration was no different from the old wet days. They were right in a way. While saloonkeepers and restaurant owners were forbidden by law to sell alcoholic beverages, there was nothing said about giving it away and at many of the big hotels last night patrons who had paid a stiff price for tables were the recipients of gifts of whiskey and wine.

It was no unusual sight to see men and women arriving at restaurants and hotels in evening clothes carrying bulging packages of wine and whiskey.

All the Broadway hotels and restaurants were crowded to the limit, many paying from $25 to $50 merely for the privilege of getting a table.

Summed up 1919 went out in a blaze of noise and alcohol, so far as New York was concerned.

OFFICIALS SPLIT IN BROWN CASE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Mount Clemens, Mich., Jan. 1—While local police officers and county officials hurl charges of "bungling," attack each other and inject politics into their quarrel over the handling of the case, Mrs. Beatrice Vester occupies a cell in the county jail here today, awaiting trial Saturday on the charge of having shot and killed J. Stanley Brown, Mount Clemens's wealthiest young man, while motoring with him on Romeo road near here on the night of ecember 23.

In the meantime citizens "disgusted with the action of the authorities," are circulating a petition to the district circuit court judge asking appointment of a special prosecutor to press the state's charge against the woman.

Mrs. Vester, on being arraigned before Justice Sawe last night, entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of murder.

Several times during the night she reiterated her previous statement that "Lloyd Prevost and Mrs. Ruth Prevost Brown (widow of the slain man) had participated in the murder."

Chief of Police Allan Straight again questioned Mrs Vester last night and declared today he "was satisfied Mrs Vester would have no trouble in convincing others of her innocence."

Straight declared that had he the power he would insist on warrants for the arrest of the widow and her cousin, Lloyd Prevost.

But County Prosecutor Johnston has so far refused to consider Straight's request for a warrant.

AT THE THEATERS.

Stellar Bills at Play Houses For Holidays.

A motion picture masterpiece which measures up to the highest standards of art, acting, direction and production will be the attraction at Keeney's tonight in addition to Charlie Chaplin's latest and greatest "A Day's Pleasure." It is Vitagraph's superfeature. "The Wolf," with Earle Williams in the stellar role. The screen version has an atmosphere that the stage production lacked. The beautiful scenery of California is faithfully reproduced. Picturesque log cabins, virgin forests, rapids through which birch bark canoes shoot, cascades over which a mighty flood dashes sending a heavy mist heavenward, interesting Indian encampments and the beautiful shores of Lake Tahoe, with majestic, snow-capped mountains in the distance form the background of an intense dramatic story of the open open country.

Neal Hart, who stars in "When the Desert Smiled," the attraction at the Auditorium tonight, is a real westerner. Hart has lived the life he portrays on the screen. Without a doubt he is one of the few screen stars who knows how to punch a cow, throw a lariat and do the real western stunts that are required of him from actual experience. He has had a varied career as a cow puncher, a deputy sheriff and a motion picture star, and loves the life. Other features are a Merit comedy, Gaumont News and Chester Outing Scenic. Tomorrow Elaine Hammerstein in "Wanted for Murder."

One of the most timely photo-dramas ever offered the public is "The Boomerang," which tells a story of absorbing interest and deals with dissatisfied labor, love and intrigue. In "The Boomerang" you will see that sterling actor Henry B. Walthall, in one of his greatest roles. "The Boomerang" is presented at the Kingston Opera House tonight and tomorrow, in addition to three acts of superior vaudeville selected to especially please theater goers. These consist of a variety of numbers, including a miniature musical comedy with six girls, a novelty singing and dancing number with Jimmie O'Brien and his girls and a sensational slack wire dare devil with thrills and stunts. There will be two shows at night at 7 and 9. These acts will remain for Friday and Saturday with a change of photoplay Saturday.

Lattingtown, Jan. 1—A few sleighs were used in this section during the recent fall of snow, but now the ground is nearly all bare.

ATE OF TURKEY IS SETTLED

Britain and France but Secrecy is Well Imposed—Armenia, Which U. S. Refuses to Accept Mandate, is Uncracked Nut.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Jan. 1.—The future of Turkey has been fixed by Great Britain and France, but the details are as yet an unofficial secret. Conflicting unofficial reports were in circulation today regarding the fate of Constantinople and the future seat of government.

According to one report the sultan will be allowed to remain in Constantinople and the city will remain the seat of the Mohammedan religion, but political control over the Bosphorus and the Dardanelles will be vested in an international commission.

Apparently no European power is prepared to trust another with full authority over these straits and strategic waterways. Now that the United States has refused to accept a mandate for Armenia, the powers have agreed that international control is the best solution.

The sultan will remain in Constantinople, not as ruler of the nation, but head of the spiritual faith, according to the reports.

The Turks' fangs were removed, however, through amputation of their political influence from a world standpoint and by freeing all the races which heretofore have been subject to Turkish misrule.

Thus, when the big five come to write the Turkish peace treaty, the main features are expected to be:

1—The manner of control of Constantinople the Dardanelles, and the Bosphorus that is to be set up.

2—The manner of conditions which can be revoked to eliminate the caliphate of Constantinople.

3—The future of Armenia.

4—Demarkation of frontiers of nationalities freed from Turkish rule.

5—Indemnity from Turkey.

6—Sphere of influence to be apportioned among France, Italy, Great Britain and Greece from sections of the former Turkish empire.

In addition Great Britain has already set up the king of the Hedjaz to deminate Arabia and the Syrian hinterland while Costal Syria and a bit beyond goes to France.

Armenia, both as to frontiers and government, is the uncracked nut. With the United States unwilling to accept a mandate, the European powers are in a quandry, for they hesitate to rush further into liabilities. A mandate for a land barren of natural resources and natural wealth has few takers.

How far Greek aspirations in Asia Minor will be recognized, is a matter of pure speculation. M. Caclamonos, the Greek minister in London, declares that Greece is forced to maintain an army of 300,000 men at a cost of $20,000,000 a month—a great sum for such a small country—and urges that the Turkish treaty be hastened.

FROM CARDINAL GIBBONS.

Says Happiness for New Year Rests With Individuals.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 1.—"It is my sincere wish that all of our people will be blessed with happiness this new year," said Cardinal Gibbons today.

"But happiness depends, in a great measure, upon ourselves. We must live good, virtuous lives if we desire the real joy of living. Only by faithfully observing all of our good laws can we expect the graces necessary to our spiritual and temporal well being. We are all amenable to His divine laws and we must conform to them in order to be worthy of His benediction. In all our vicissitudes—in all our pleasures and sorrows—we must look to Him for grace and guidance. We can by our own efforts weave a crown of future happiness for ourselves.

"By doing our duty to Him and our fellow men, our happiness is indeed assured us."

PRESIDENT SIGNS MCNARY BILL

Tumulty Explains That it is Probably Too Late to Buy Cuban Sugar Which is Now Arriving—May Use Licensing Power.

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Washington, Jan. 1.—The president has signed the McNary sugar control bill, it was announced at the White House this afternoon.

Secretary Tumulty made the following statement regarding this bill:

"The president has signed the sugar control bill. This bill confers discretion on the president in the matter of purchasing sugar from Cuba. It is doubtful whether it will be practicable or wise for the president to exercise the power conferred so far as the purchase and distribution of sugar are concerned. Some of the Cuban sugar has already been purchased and there is no central control over sugar in Cuba as there was last year and it might be found impossible for the government now to step in and purchase the sugar without increasing the price to the consumer. The bill, however, contains the licensing power also, and this power may be used to assist in controlling profiteering among distributors. Much Cuban sugar is coming in now and the indications are that prices have reached their peak and that there will be a tendency to fall within the next few weeks."

ODDS AND ENDS.

BIG HAWK IS FIGHTER

Hunter Kills Bird That Had Been Killing Chickens.

John Fox of Junction City, Kan., received a number of bad cuts in one hand as the result of a fight with a monster chicken hawk.

The hawk, an unusually large black bird, has been killing farmers' chickens in the Milford neighborhood for years, but has always proved gunshy and too wary for the hunters who laid for him. Recently Fox and Joseph Moritz, one of the farmers who had lost many chickens through the hawk, were driving along the road in the latter's car and saw the big hawk ahead of them.

They chased him with the machine, but he kept out of range until the machine was put at full speed. Running abreast with the flying hawk, Moritz brought his car to a sudden halt and Fox jumped out, shooting the hawk through the wing. When Fox attempted to pick him up the big bird put up a fight and finally had to be killed before he could be touched with safety. He had a wing spread of four feet.

Duty Toward Children.

Men of today have a duty to childhood because they themselves have once been children. Each generation is a recipient in its turn of the accumulated wisdom and great travails of ages, and is in duty bound to pass that on, plus a certain increment due to its own exertion.—Exchange.

GOAT MEAT GOOD AS MUTTON

It Is Said Only Experts Are Able to Tell the Difference Between the Two.

There is a growing disposition to give the goat his due. Heretofore this rubbish-eating animal has been regarded pretty much as a joke, but he has continued to eat tin cans and thrive until now his race has acquired census-listing proportions and a market has been established in a middle-western city where surplus goats will be converted into "spring lamb" for the benefit of our non-vegetarians. As an addition to the poor man's meat perhaps the goat will be welcome, especially if his advent tends to lower the present high prices.

Goat meat tastes much the same as mutton, it is claimed, and that the difference cannot be told save by an expert. Perhaps that is just as well. Our imagination has much to do with our taste. Many people are eating horse meat in this country under the impression that it is beef, for horses are slaughtered, but almost nowhere is their meat exposed for sale under its true name. No doubt the easiest way for us to get used to goat meat is to camouflage it as mutton. It is another case of ignorance being bliss.

But, as we are assured by the experts that it is wholesome, a name will not make much difference in the end. Mutton, the world over, has been the poor man's meat. If goat meat can add to the supply, so much the better. The meat of goats was a favorite in the days of the patriarchs. It is still highly prized in the East. There seems to be no reason why it should not ultimately hold a respectable place on our menus.

Proper View of Peace.

Peace is our proper solution to all men. There is no reason why, as far as we are concerned, we should not be at peace with everybody. If even they are not at peace with us, we may be at peace with them. Let them look to their own hearts, we have only to do with our own.—J. B. Mosley.

"LOADED DICE."

"Loaded dice for the American public," is the way Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey characterizes the agreement under which the coal strike was called off. Heralded throughout the country as a "settlement" by the President and his Attorney General, an arrangement was entered into with the miners under which they resumed coal production. The public was led to believe that, all other agencies having failed, Mr. Wilson from his sick bed advised the plan which ended the difficulty. But as the public becomes aware of the vast power to be wielded by the newly appointed coal commission they realize that the settlement was nothing less than a complete surrender to the miners' demands; in fact it went further in that the commission may not only fix wages for the future but it may make the new rates retroactive to any date it may see fit. Wages in the past, present and future, as well as all future prices of coal, are to be established by Mr. Wilson's commission of three men.

The control that those three individuals will exercise over the pocketbooks of the people is simply enormous, and rivals the financial powers of Congress itself. If they wish to do so they can take a billion dollars from the purses of 100,000,000 people and give it to 1,000,000, that is, the coal miners and coal operators. The public is helpless and must pay the bill, either directly in the purchase of coal or indirectly in the enhanced prices of manufactured commodities. The men whom Mr. Wilson has selected as the financial arbiters in the production of fuel are supposed to represent equally the public. Whether they do or not is a subject for discussion, but assuming that all three interests are represented by men of equal ability and sincerity, it follows that ninety-nine per cent of the people have one vote on the commission, less than one per cent, the miners have another vote, and a very small fraction of one per cent, the operators, the other vote.

Why the people of the country should be outvoted ninety-nine to one on a commission clothed with power to fix the fuel policy of the whole nation is something that the average citizen cannot understand. Right there is where the "loaded dice" get in their deadly work. The public must stand helplessly while an insignificant few, favored by the extraordinary dispensation of the President, proceed to mulct them to any extent their fancies dictate.

A RETURN TO SAVAGERY.

Those "parlor socialists," near-artistic "bohemians" and unreflecting persons, including a few clergymen, who have come to the defense of the Emma Goldman type of anarchist, should prayerfully consider the following statement of her creed made by the Goldman woman in a public meeting: "I represent the devil. I am an apostle upholding glorious freedom the apostle standing out against law and order and decency and morality. I am for the devil who leads the way to the absolute yielding up to all the emotions here and now. Women are the slaves of little laws and conventions. They'll learn to break the laws some day."

Let it be granted that what Emma meant was that there is no devil, no sin, no evil, no good, and that to attain "glorious freedom" is to grab our happiness now without wailing, another anarchist has put it, for example, into a "chimerical form." But even so considered what such a creed would lead to. It would be only a return to savagery—unbridled license for the chosen man of the hour, and women forced sorrowfully to bow before and loathe. It would mean a return to the law of the jungle and to the cry of brute force. It would mean the reign of the cave man. A pull on a string, the snap of a finger, a click at the trigger of the most powerful of modern engines of destruction, and presently each of both sexes would be everywhere assailed on by the strong, and the [illegible] between the strong and the weak, as for the [illegible] calls for a return to the unrestrained savagery of the most cruel and benighted ages and tribes of men.

The records will show that Mr. Taft, when President, was quite as certain that the American people, and the Canadian people were overwhelmingly in favor of reciprocity, as he is now sure that the former, by a huge majority, are in favor of the league of nations. When Taft forced the reciprocity issue he was in a position to sense the feelings of the public. Did he sense it correctly? Canadian reciprocity played an important part in giving him one of the worst political defeats in history. The Democrats gained control of the House in the last two years of the Taft administration and passed his measure. Canada turned down reciprocity categorically. The Hon. Samuel McCall led the fight on the Republican side for that measure, and he is now certain that the American people want the league of nations. But the strange thing about it is that neither gentleman is willing to let the people vote on the question, and that is what the Republican party insists they be afforded the opportunity to do.

Different Place

Often you hear it said: "Candyland is different." Maybe it's the deliciousness of our Sodas and Sundaes—perhaps it's the palatability of the goodies in our Luncheonette Service—or the Service and Cleanliness—or the Atmosphere that Pervades—or the Character of the People.

Perhaps it is All of These—for Candyland is different, and that is why it is so popular.

GOMPERS PLEDGES LABOR'S AID TO SOLVE PROBLEMS

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Washington, Jan 1—Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor last night issued this New Year statement

America's workers stand ready in the new year as in the past to do their full duty as American citizens We have always placed our obligations as citizens above all else As citizens we are true to the American ideal of equal opportunity for all

In the past we have found it necessary to fight for that ideal against agencies that sought to establish special privilege Those fights have not been in defence of class advantages but to assure to wage earners the rights and opportunities that all should possess Our struggles may have brought discomfort to others, but they prevented a greater evil—deterioration of the virility of a part of the nation

The great struggle of labor in the past has been to assure to workers in their industrial relations the rights of free citizens We have fought to give the ideal of America dominating influence in shops and factories Our militant struggle has won general recognition for our demands But our work is not all militant We are in a position to contribute to the improvement of production processes and organization

The immediate problem of the world is to develop a production organization that will benefit directly those who are the real producers and will also serve the needs of starving nations When assured of just dealings America's workers are able to cooperate in freeing production from the preventing grasp of speculators and influences that manipulate industry to enrich a few who gain unfair advantage thus preventing production for the benefit of all

This is a big job, but it is essential for well grounded development in the years to come It is essential to that ideal which is America—equal opportunity for all America's workers will do their full share in working out all our country's problems

Hail to the New Year 1920 May it bring freedom, glory and happiness to all our people!

Not until he received a telephone message from Hartford did he know that the barrels contained wood alcohol

HAS MANY "MEN" WITHOUT COUNTRY

Switzerland Overrun With Bits of Political Shipwreck.

MANY CASES ARE PATHETIC

Individuals There From Every Overturned Government of Europe, Each of Whom Has Legal and Moral Claims Against Some Government That Has Either Disappeared or Is Being Re-formed—Only Authority Too Busy.

In the efforts of the peace conference to reweave the torn political and social fabric of Europe only nations have been considered to date says Henry Wood staff correspondent of the United Press

The rights of individuals have not even been mentioned.

And yet Switzerland for example today is filled with individuals from every overturned government of Europe, each one of whom has legal and moral claims against some government that has either disappeared or is being re-formed.

Until these claims can be re-established these individuals are tiny bits of shipwreck on the turbulent sea of European political and social life Some are without means of existence; some are without country or nationality, some are without legal or civil rights

In many cases their respective rights ceased to exist when some government disappeared or was succeeded by another More often the new government refused to accept the obligations of the old one and thousands of individuals were thus left stranded

Only Authority Too Busy.

No authority short of the peace conference itself could possibly hear adjust and enforce the rights of each one of these individuals as it is now trying to hear, adjust and enforce the rights of each nation That it will never be able to take up the cases of individuals is certain That they will never succeed in re establishing their rights themselves seems equally certain Apparently only one fate awaits them and that is to live out their allotted existence without ever again becoming worked back into the new social and political fabric of Europe that is becoming woven, leaving it to the coming generation to adjust itself into the new order of things

These individual cases in Switzerland now amount to thousands, while those who still remain in the countries where their legal, civil and financial rights formerly existed unquestionably number millions The recital here of a few typical examples of individual cases now in Switzerland will give some idea of how varied how pathetic and how helpless they are, and of how finely and delicately the social and political fabric of Europe was woven before it was torn asunder and how long it may take before it can again be rewoven into a smooth, serviceable piece of cloth

Living in the most modest quarters of Berne and yet still surrounding herself with a little of the dignity that pertained to her former station is the wife of one of the highest admirals in the former Austrian navy In the neat is woven social and political fabric of before the war she was entitled to a pension as the widow of a high naval officer It amounted to about 6,000 crowns a year which was sufficient to enable her to live With the heavy depreciation of Austrian currency her pens on now nets her 18 cents a day

Professor is Stranded

There is also at Berne the former professor of economics at the University of Czernowitz Before the war because of his international reputation he had been designated as exchange professor at Yale.

The professor is left with nothing on which to live unless, indeed his life time study of economics has developed some theory if not a practice of how to live without an income

Without doubt the greatest number of social and political shipwrecks now in Switzerland are those left by the peace conference without either country or nationality As a consequence these individuals who formerly had Russian, Austrian or Hungarian passports find themselves men without a country for the time being They apply at once to the legation embassy or consulate of the new state to which the territory in which they reside has been assigned by the peace conference and ask for a passport or other official recognition that they are citizens of the new state For various reasons but usually because the applicant was unusually loyal to the old government, the request is refused The individual therefore rests without a country The Swiss government, like every other European nation at the present, demands a passport of every foreigner within its boundaries

Walk That Tells Character.

A peculiar walk is that of the long stride with the decided swing of the shoulders This walk is generally to be seen in authors actors and artists, and is characteristic of the art world the man who has ideas of his own, and is quite untrammeled by convention. PLAIN OLD "BIKE" IS POPULAR IN MEXICO

Automobile and Motorcycle Fail to Depose Plebeian Means of Locomotion.

Automobiles motorcycles and other gasoline driven vehicles have not deposed the pleb in bicycle as the most popular means of locomotion in Mexico City. Business men use them to go to work government employees bowl along on them by the score school children prefer them to street cars and the one buses.

The old time bicycle club of twenty years ago flourishes and it is no uncommon sight to see a party of men and women in the conventional riding garb taking a spin over the well paved streets of the capital.

No ordinances have been passed regulating the use of bicycles They must be equipped with front and rear lights of a designated color, brakes horns and whistles

Some of the more fancy ones bear flags coats of arms and a holder for the inevitable walking sticks affected by every real gentleman in the capital It is not uncommon to see a bicycle carrying at least twice its original cost in equipment

But with bicycles as with automobiles there is no speed limit. Bicycle riders and their dare-devil companions the drivers of the automobile busses, continue to be the terror of pedestrians

RIDERLESS PONY WINS RACE

But Judge Ignored Money to Horse With Rider.

Sometimes it is the jockey that wins the race; sometimes the horse wins the race without the jockey.

Two ponies were entered in the pony race at the fair at Markham, Ontario. Both riders rode bareback. Half way round the track young Jack Paterson, who was running second, suddenly went over his pony's head. The riderless animal did not quit because its rider did. It stayed with the race rapidly overhauled the leading pony and passed the judges stand a "no loosing" winner.

The grand stand roared applause. "First money for the riderless pony" the crowd shouted. The judges thought otherwise and awarded the race to the rider.

The race began. Again the two jockey ponies outdistanced the rest. Jack jumped off his pony. The other rider was determined to win. Neck and neck the horses approached the line. Then the riderless horse sprinted and won the race by half a length.

And, despite the cries from the grand stand the judges awarded first money to the horse that came second with its rider.

Winchell-Rudnitski.

At five o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, December 31st, Miss Hazel Rudnitski, daughter of Charles F. Rudnitski of this city, and Wilfred D. Winchell, son of Captain Charles Winchell of this city were quietly married at the First Dutch Church, the Rev. J. L. Leeper, D. D., officiating. The bride, who wore a going-away gown, was given away by her father. Only the immediate members of the families of the bride and groom witnessed the ceremony. Following a luncheon, Mr. and Mrs. Winchell left for New York and on their return they will make their home at 23 Orchard street this city. Both of the young people, who have been popular employes of the L. B. Van Wagenen Company have the best wishes of a host of friends.

Fraser-Schick.

Miss Georgiana Schick, daughter of Alderman and Mrs. George Schick and J. C. Fraser of Minneapolis, Minn., were quietly married at the home of the bride's parents No. 61 East Chester street, this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John S. MacDonald of St. Stephen's College, Annandale. Miss Emelia Riccobono acted as maid of honor, the best man being Harry J. Stretch of Flushing, L. I. The home was prettily decorated with Christmas greens. The bride, a graduate of Kingston Academy has many friends in this city whose best wishes she has. The groom is the principal of the High School at Whitehall, N. Y. Among the out of town guests who attended the wedding were the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Fraser of Minneapolis, and friends from Albany, Troy, Schenectady, Newark, Philadelphia and Saugerties.

Ross-Ashley.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Ashley on Henry street was the scene, this afternoon at 3 o'clock, of a charming Christmas wedding, when Miss Ruth S. Ashley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ashley, became the bride of William S. Ross, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Ross, of this city. Amidst Christmas decorations, and cut flowers, the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Arthur S. Cole, pastor of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church. The bride who wore a beautiful gown of white georgette and carried bride's roses, was attended by Miss Ruth S. Deegan as maid of honor, prettily gowned in tan net and carrying pink roses. The best man was J. Gordon Ross, brother of the groom, from Kentucky. Following the ceremony and the serving of a collation, Mr. and Mrs. Ross left for Detroit, where Mr. Ross is connected with the Du Pont Company. The many, many friends of the young people, the bride being a recent graduate of the Kingston High School, wish them all possible happiness. There was a profusion of handsome and costly gifts including several substantial checks. Guests were present from Kentucky, New York and New Jersey.

Delightful Assembly Dance.

The New Year's Assembly dance held Wednesday evening at St. Mary's Hall was a particularly delightful and successful social affair. There were some hundred and fifty guests present. Music was furnished by Senofield's orchestra of Poughkeepsie and the catering was by Mrs. Daley, who served chicken salad, sandwiches, nuts, coffee and candy, and during the evening, lemonade. The table was particularly handsome with its centerpiece of poinsettias from the Burgevin conservatories, and its red candles. The musicians were screened with palms and red ribbons, carrying out the thought of the holiday decorations. The scene was a charming one with the beautiful gowns of the women and the happy faces of all the young people of the city, home for holidays, present, and among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ned Shultz, guests of Mr. and Miss Horton; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Bunker of Yonkers, guests of Mrs. William A. Warren; Miss Elizabeth and Jack Langthorne, guests of Miss Florence Tappen, Miss Eleanor Fowler of Haverstraw, a guest of Mrs. George Washburn. There were also present, many guests from Saugerties. Preceeding the dance, dinners were given by Mrs. James O. Winston, Mrs. Charles Tappen and Mrs. C. Rodman Stull.

When foodstuff prices went soaring out of bounds in Nebraska thousands of housewives throughout the state contented themselves with verbal protests. Still the prices continued to mount higher and higher every day until the ladies of the state decided to organize. The women's clubs of the state put all their strength into the fight against the food profiteers. A general committee was appointed. On this committee were Mrs. E. F. Bell, Mrs. F. A. Harrison, Mrs. N. E. Hildredth and Mrs. C. S. Clayton. The first step in the fight was the boycotting of eggs. The housewives of the state were appealed to. They were asked to stop buying eggs and complied. Within two weeks the price of eggs dropped thirty cents, from 95 to 65 cents a dozen. Cheered on by their success, the women are planning to attack the price of many other commodities, especially clothing, along the same lines.

In Line For Stecher's Title.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, Jan. 1.—John Pesek, of Shelton, Neb., farmer wrestler, is in line today for a finish match with Joe Stecher for the title, following his defeat of Steve Savage in straight falls here last night.

Sincerity.

Sincerity is the most compendious wisdom, and an excellent instrument for the speedy dispatch of business; it inspires confidence in those we have to deal with, saves the labor of many inquiries, and brings things to an issue in few words; it is like traveling in a plain beaten road, which commonly brings a man sooner to his journey's end than bywayes, in which men lose themselves.—Tillotson.

A Crawling Fish.

A Brazilian fish called the maltha cannot swim. It can only crawl or walk or hop. It has a long, upturned snout and resembles a toad. The anterior fins of the maltha are quite small and are not able to act on the water. They only move backward and forward and are in reality thin paws, which are of no service for swimming.

Sava Orohovitz.

Sava Orohovitz, of the Literary and Civic Societies of Bulgaria, who arrived in New York recently aboard the liner Black Arrow. Mr. Orohovitz brought with him an illuminated memorial which will be presented to Mrs. Andrew Carnegie in behalf of the Bulgarian societies as a token of honor of the late philanthropist, who was instrumental in sending relief workers to Bulgaria shortly after the close of the Balkan war.

THE COMRADE.

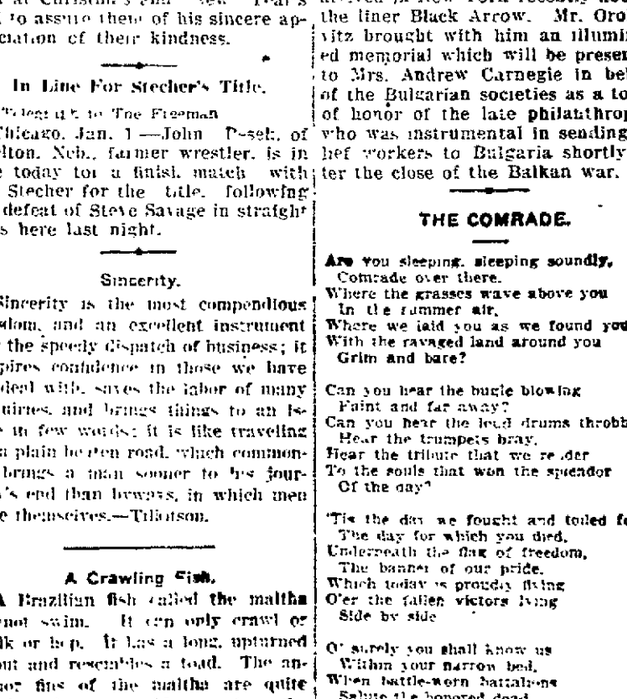

Are you sleeping, sleeping soundly,
Comrade over there,
Where the grasses wave above you
In the summer air,
Where we laid you as we found you
With the ravaged land around you
Grim and bare?

Can you hear the bugle blowing
Faint and far away?
Can you hear the loud drums throbbing,
Hear the trumpets bray,
Hear the tribute that we render
To the souls that won the splendor
Of the day?

'Tis the day we fought and toiled for,
The day for which you died,
Underneath the flag of freedom,
The banner of our pride,
Which today is proudly flying
O'er the fallen victors lying Side by side.

O! surely you shall know us
Within your narrow bed,
When battle-worn battalions
Salute the honored dead,
Shall feel the brave earth shaken
And to knowledge shall awaken
At our tread!

Mt. Clemens, Mich., authorities investigating the slaying of J. Stanley Brown, wealthy Detroit clubman, whose body was found in his automobile on a lonely road near Mt. Clemens, are convinced that two persons had a hand in the crime. They have issued a warrant for the arrest of a woman friend of Brown, who, the police believe, can throw some light on the mystery. Mrs. Brown, who is shown here in outing costume, was being sued for divorce at the time the slain man's body was found. Divorce suit is dead. She is 29 years old.

ISOLATED FROM HUSBAND FOUR YEARS BY WAR

American Woman Long Shut Out From World in Montenegro Soon to Return.

Isolated for four years in the fastnesses of the Montenegrin mountains through the fortunes of war, Mrs. Rose M. Struger, former Miss Rose Webb, of Tacoma, Wash., will soon be restored to her husband in St. Paul, Minn. Lost to her world since the Austrian hordes swept over the country and her husband marched away with the Montenegrin troops, she and her little son have suffered all the anguish of complete isolation from family and friends besides the physical discomforts of wartime living in a war-wrecked country.

Five years ago Marco Struger brought his wife and baby son from the United States to visit his parents at Ceklin, Montenegro, a village high up in the mountains. While on their visit the war began and the husband shouldered his rifle to help stay the onrush of the Austrian armies, and hurried to army headquarters at Podgoritza. He was captured by the Austrians, but escaped, and returned to the United States where he sought Red Cross aid to find his wife in Montenegro.

When an American Red Cross commission arrived in Montenegro after the armistice, Mrs. Struger wrote asking for assistance for the refugees in her little mountain village. Her appeal reached the commission a few days after an inquiry from Washington, asking the commission to locate Mrs. Struger had been received. The supplies were sent to the mountain town, in response to Mrs. Struger's appeal. She took entire charge of the relief work in her district and made several convoy trips between her village and Podgoritza.

Mrs. Struger proved to be a tall, good looking woman, bronzed by the sun and winds of Montenegro. In her years with the mountaineers she had acquired a perfect speaking knowledge of their language. She was put into communication with her husband and soon will join him in America.

CAN DO ALL TURTLE DOES

Illinois Traveler Carries His House on His Back.

The amphibious turtle has "nothing on" Milton H. Baker, a Christian Science nurse of Highland Park, Ill., who recently started on a 5,000-mile motorcycle trip through Florida. Like the turtle, he carries his house on his back and can travel with equal ease on land or water.

On his motorcycle he carries a twelve-foot folding boat of a type used by explorers. When he comes to a lake he simply unfolds the boat, places the motorcycle in it, attaches the motor to the propeller shaft and goes skimming over the waves. If the gas runs out or the engine goes dead, he has a paddle. If the paddle snaps he has a sail.

He also carries a tent, which he can place over himself and the motorcycle at night if on land, or over the boat if on the water.

As a protection against swampy ground he carries a waterproof flooring for the tent and an air mattress, which may serve the double purpose of a life preserver or air tank to keep the boat afloat.

But this does not complete the equipment. There is a camping outfit, a complete assortment of tackle for catching Florida's famous green trout, and a mosquito tent. The whole outfit is balanced on a motorcycle side car, which folds up when in the boat.

GOLF CAPS REPLACE FEZ

Mohammedans of Elburon Are Wearing Modern Lids.

Mohammedans of Elburon are wearing American golf caps instead of the red fez which has been the immemorial head covering of the Turk.

The American occupation left stacks in a scrap of cloth in the country. Many Turks went bareheaded. Then an American Red Cross unit arrived, bringing thousands of caps.

Today most of the Turkish schoolboys of Elburon wear the conventional caps of their Yankee brothers across the ocean and look the better for it.

One of the Bureau of Chemistry Laboratories in Which Examinations Are Made to Determine Whether Food and Drugs Shipped From Abroad Are in Accord With the Law.

IMPORTED FOODS AND DRUGS ARE CLOSELY WATCHED

Bureau of Chemistry Charged With Important Duty.

ANALYSIS OFTEN NECESSARY

Products Coming From Foreign Countries Are Carefully Inspected to Insure That They Are Not Misbranded or Adulterated Under the Terms of the Federal Food and Drugs Act—Laboratories Are Maintained at Branch Offices of Bureau.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Larger quantities and a greater variety of foods are being imported from foreign countries each month, although prewar volumes have not yet been reached. This statement is made by officials of the bureau of chemistry, United States department of agriculture, who are charged with the enforcement of the federal food and drugs act.

The importation of both foods and drugs was affected greatly by the war, but the interruption to the importation of crude drugs was less marked than in the case of pharmaceuticals and foods, according to the officials. An inspection of all imported food and drug products is maintained by the bureau of chemistry, in order to insure that such products coming from foreign countries are not misbranded or adulterated under the terms of the federal food and drugs act.

Analysis Often Necessary.

Laboratories for the examination of samples from shipments of imported food and drugs are maintained by the bureau of chemistry at its branch stations in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Savannah, New Orleans, San Francisco, Seattle, San Juan, P. R., and at some other cities where the importations are smaller in volume. Invoices of all food and drug shipments coming into the United States are scrutinized by food and drug officials, and all shipments which there is reason to believe may be misbranded or adulterated are examined. In many instances chemical analysis of samples is necessary to determine whether or not a given shipment is in accordance with the provisions of the law. In other instances a physical examination is a specialist is sufficient.

The federal food and drugs act provides that if any article of food or drugs offered to be imported into the United States is adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of that act, or is otherwise dangerous to the health of the people of the United States, or is of a kind forbidden entry into, or forbidden to be sold, or restricted for sale in the country in which it is made or from which it is exported, or is otherwise falsely labeled in any respect, such article shall be refused admission. The secretary of the treasury is authorized by the act to refuse delivery to the consignee of such articles and to cause the destruction of any goods refused delivery which shall not be exported. However, when importers, through no apparent fault of their own, receive shipments of foods or drugs which are adulterated or misbranded, but not grossly, it is customary to release the goods after relabeling, sorting or cleaning, if a product which complies with the law can thus be obtained.

Many Foods Now Coming In.

Certain crude drugs and some foods, such as coffee, tea, spices, olive oil, figs, etc., are either not produced at all in the United States or are produced in too small quantities to meet the demand. Other foods are imported to meet the demands of that portion of the population born in foreign countries who desire to obtain the same kind of food to which they were accustomed before coming to this country. There are some foods produced or manufactured in other countries which have established a world-wide reputation for excellence or some peculiarity of flavor. Although domestic articles of the same kind may be available in abundance some prefer to buy the foreign article because of an assumed or actual superiority of appearance, flavor or quality. The cognacs and champagnes of France are articles of this class which can no longer be imported; but certain foreign ginger ales, mineral waters, jellies, sardines, cheeses, etc., continue to be in demand.

Practically all the different classes of foods imported previous to the war, with the exception of alcoholic beverages, are now coming in, say the officials, although in the case of some foods in not as large quantities. War embargoes on some foods are still in effect in a few countries. For instance olive oil cannot as yet be shipped from Italy. Olive oil, however, is being imported from France and Spain.

The officials of the treasury department co-operate with those of the bureau of chemistry, United States department of agriculture, in enforcing the provisions of the federal food and drugs act relating to imported foods and drugs.

GERMANY SHORT OF RUBBER

Articles of All Kinds Scarce on Markets of Former Empire.

Germany's industrial situation continues to be a paramount problem for public discussion. Almost every newspaper in the country has been devoting one or two columns daily to suggestions and criticisms of the industrial policies adopted by the national assembly.

No relief is in sight so far as the editors have been able to foresee, owing to the coal shortage, lack of transportation and the scarcity of raw materials still to be faced.

The demand for rubber and rubber products appears to be increasing, rubber articles of all kinds being particularly scarce on the market. Prohibitive prices have been paid recently in Cologne and other Rhineland cities by dealers from the interior of Germany for old automobile and bicycle tires. Millions of marks' worth of salvaged rubber goods have been sold by the American, French and British army authorities to the Germans, but this supply apparently has not relieved the demand in the least.

FINDS TIGER ON DOORSTEP

California Man Has Six Months' Old Animal Wished on Him.

Anyone who wants a nice, plump baby Royal Bengal tiger should apply to James B. Logan, San Mateo county, Cal., traffic officer. He has such a critter—a foundling—and does not know what to do with it.

Logan was awakened recently at his home in Menlo Park by a noise on the porch. Going to the door he saw a basket covered with a shawl. With visions of having to adopt a newborn babe, Logan took the basket into the house. Pulling back the covers he discovered a six months' old tiger. He had no idea where the animal came from, but presumes some one brought it from the orient and, not knowing what to do with it, "wished" it on him.

"I wish it had been a baby instead of a tiger," said Logan. "For it eats six times as much as a baby."

"Cures" for Rheumatism.

Rheumatism is perhaps a disease which affects more people on this earth than any other complaint, and the writer agrees that a sample is supplied. But the number of recommended "cures" celebrating the common blanket's suits and the coolest Crux, still seem to bring some sufferers to the annoying ache, a writer in London Answers states.

FAVOR HARVARD IN GAME TODAY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 1.—Before probably the greatest throng that ever witnessed a sporting event on the Pacific coast, east will meet west at the Tournament of Roses Stadium this afternoon when Harvard University and the University of Oregon football teams clash in the New Year's day classic.

More than 31,000 people are expected to be in the stands when the whistle blows for the kickoff.

Harvard, benefited by a sudden drop in temperature after a week's unusual warmth, went into the big game a slight favorite.

Not only the football fans picked Harvard to win, but coaches, officials and other experts agreed that the edge was with the crimson team.

The one bright hope of the Oregonians was their fighting spirit and the possible chance that they would have an edge on Harvard in the matter of condition. Oregon having trained at Pasadena two weeks while the Cambridge team had but five days in which to reach top form.

Aside from the general interest in today's game, there was much speculation as to the performances of the two most widely touted stars of the two teams. Casey, Harvard's great halfback and the only all-American selection on the Harvard team, and Steers, Oregon's giant quarterback and drop-kicker on the third team of Camp's all-Americans.

There was considerable wagering on the scoring in the game. Many were willing to wager that Casey would score at least one touch down, while Oregon supporters were predicting that Steers would score by the aerial route.

Today's game was the first east versus west contest staged in Pasadena on New Year's day since 1916 when the powerful Oregon eleven defeated Pennsylvania.

Military Academy Closes.

Announcement was made Wednesday by A. Haydn Mason, headmaster of the Haydn Arms Military Academy that the school in Academy street, Poughkeepsie, would close until better facilities can be secured. The main reason for the closing of the school is that the present building has no drill grounds or a campus for the boys and the building is too small to conduct a regular sized academy. The South American military official also objected to the present building and advised Major Mason to seek other quarters for the school. A few of the boys who were here for academic purposes only will remain in Poughkeepsie and attend Eastman Business College while the majority of the students have been placed in the Raymond Riordan School at Highland and Roosevelt Military Academy in New Jersey under the supervision of Mr. Mason.

In Memoriam.

John M. Post, January 1, 1920. In loving remembrance of our dear brother and son, who departed this life January 1, 1915.

Five long years have passed
Since we saw our dear brother last.
God called him home, it was His will,
But in our hearts he lingers still.
His memory is as dear today
As in the hour he passed away.
We often think of him
When we are all alone.
For memory is the only friend
That grief can call its own.

A surprise party, which was a complete surprise, was given Mr. and Mrs. David Kieffer last Saturday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. William Longyear, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKittrick, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Frear, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Smith of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. William Stanley of Katrine and Mrs. Anna Robinson of New York city took possession of the Kieffer home. All reported an enjoyable time.

Services will be held at the Grange Hall on Sunday evening at 7:30.

A generous sized audience greeted the members of the Sunday school at their annual Christmas entertainment, Monday evening. The program was given by the pupils of the primary class, in charge of William Hookey and the juniors of Mrs. David Kieffer's class, assisted by Mrs. Frank Brink, who had charge of the music. In the choir were Mr. and Mrs. Hookey, Mr. and Mrs. David Kieffer, Mrs. Ferguson, Mr and Mrs. Steketee, Miss Mildred Keough, Miss Minnie Henninger, Copeland Gates, Wesley Parish and Mrs. Thompson. The children all rendered their parts so well it would be difficult to praise any one feature. The program ran as follows:

Mr. Steketee then gave a brief address, the theme of which was "The Star." He congratulated the school on having such a goodly number of children represented and reminded those present that the school should have older ones as well to make it a success.

The next feature was one worthy of commendation, when Robert Auchmoody, Lena Henninger, Grace Plummer, Mary Bloomfield, Florence Lockwood and Katherin Brink received prizes of Bibles for attending the full year.

Then followed a recitation by June Hookey, who announced that Santa Claus was coming and sure enough he appeared and distributed gifts to children, remembering the pastor and teachers, as well as members of the cradle roll, who received boxes of candy. The last chorus was, "Christmas Candles," the little ones bedecked lighted candles while it was sung, which made a very pretty tableau.

CROSSING ELIMINATION TO COME SOON SAYS MAYOR IN MESSAGE

Plans About Complete and Must Be Done Now or Wait Ten Years---Recommends City Comptroller and City Purchasing Agent---Bonded Indebtedness $936,500.

The text of Mayor Canfield's annual message, read to the common council this morning, follows:

January 1st, 1920.

The Honorable, the Common Council of the City of Kingston.

Gentlemen:

It is my privilege to transmit to you an annual message for the seventh time. Each year brings greater expectations of better municipal results on the part of the citizenry which results in greater responsibility and a higher obligation of trust on the part of the administration.

Our Legion of Honor.

The legions of honor of Kingston who went forth as our representatives in the world war have returned, excepting those who courageously placed their gloried all upon the altar of our country. The great object and high worth of their service should rightfully attract our continued consideration, esteem and respect. A just sense of what is right requires a proper recognition of that which is due them.

I assume that their noble dead, whether here or in France, will be remembered on Memorial Day. I intend to have a proper testimonial of loving and reverent remembrance go forth from Kingston to reach and decorate on that day every known place of interment of any service boy from our city. Kingston must and will remember them always.

West Shore Grade Crossing.

In each of my six previous annual messages I referred to the necessity for proper and early action to eliminate our West Shore grade crossing at Broadway. I have studied the matter thoroughly and earnestly during these years. Broadway is the traffic windpipe of our city. I am convinced, as all others must be, that this crossing so compresses and strangles it as to constitute a serious stoppage and hindrance to the development of the city. Over thirty-five thousand people passed over this crossing one day last year by actual count, and over sixty-five hundred vehicles passed over it another day of ordinary traffic. The gates are lowered as a bar to traffic about two hundred times per day. This condition of traffic strangulation will become more acute and will be attended with greater suspension or obstruction of traffic circulation as time goes on. The traffic has doubled at this point in five years. It will increase two-fold during the next five to ten years. It is a problem which requires prompt attention.

This year past was the first we have been permitted to make any material progress. The proceeding before the Public Service Commission has been almost completed. Plans have been practically decided upon which will give to the city and citizens generally, and also to those whose properties may be affected, the maximum of service, benefits and advantages. Because of various conditions and situations it must be done now or probably be deferred ten years. If delayed, all public or private planning for this immediate part of the city must be done with the crossing and its future elimination as a question mark in front of it. During all this time the city must also endure an unsuitable station. In my opinion, after giving it much consideration, its accomplishment will bring a rapid business development. It will be our honest endeavor to act wisely in this major matter.

Barge Canal Terminal.

The question of water transportation has received a tremendous boost during the past couple of years. It is now generally known and recognized that every large country in Europe surpasses us in respect to this character of transportation. The need for better waterways and a larger use of waterways is well known. A barge canal terminal at Kingston as an isolated thing would not signify much. Without question there is coming a trunk line of intracoastal waterways linking together all sounds, bays and rivers, and their respective parts, along the eastern seaboard of our country. The foresighted men and women of Kingston will readily realize the desirability of having Kingston as a part of this certain-to-be waterways system. Options for the necessary land for such a terminal have been given by public spirited citizens having an interest in our city and the state engineer has completed the surveys and the preparations of the proposed layout of the terminal. The need now is for the manifestation of public sentiment to sufficiently impress the state legislative officials and chief executive favorably and thereby secure the necessary appropriation to cover the cost of the construction of the terminal.

Public Farm Market.

The prices of foodstuffs have doubled. They have soared until it is necessary to use every available and proper effort to clip the wings and maintain ground prices as far as possible. I am still of the opinion that one of the most effective ways of accomplishing this is the establishment of a proper public market which would appeal to and serve the farmers within reaching distance of Kingston, our retailers of fruit, farm and dairy products, and our consumers of such products. With the expenditure of over four millions of dollars each year by our people for these articles of food, every one per cent of reduction means a saving of over forty thousand dollars. Besides, it would improve quantity and quality of produce in our county, and the greater part of the payments to the producers would be expended in our city. I am hoping that this subject may take substantial shape and become invested with material results.

City Comptroller

Our city government consists of many boards of almost distinct and separate entity. I have seriously felt and seen the need for a centralized fiscal officer. The office of city treasurer has its important functions but it is not and cannot assume such character. Such official would keep an account with every department and with each improvement for which funds are raised or appropriated. All warrants would be drawn and signed by him and also signed by the mayor and countersigned by the city treasurer. The financial condition and resources of the city and of each department could be ascertained at practically any time. There would be a check as to the method and accuracy of all accounts. There would be a complete annual report showing the receipts from all sources and all accounts of revenue, a statement of all disbursements of each branch of the government, a statement of the indebtedness at the close of the fiscal year, the provisions made for the payment thereof, together with the purposes for which it was incurred, a incurred, a statement of the cost of ownership and operation of the income of each and every public service department or industry owned, maintained or operated, and specific information in relation to the cost of every branch of the city government. The creation of such an office would mean only a very small additional expense, if any, because it would eliminate much needless bookkeeping and clerical work in many departments and bring it into one system and to a certain extent under one control and eliminate the necessity which has arisen for additional help.

City Purchasing Agent.

I have heretofore called attention to the desirability of a purchasing agency. Our ten departments unquestionably exercise good judgment in making their respective purchases. However, with each department purchasing its own supplies independently of each other department, the most effective and favorable purchasing cannot result. There can be no standardization of methods of purchasing or of articles purchased. There must be ten small purchases of stationery and other supplies where there should be one large one. Where the purchase is small there is not always any special requirements as to quality. Where standard specifications should prevail there are none. Often in various departments, purchases must necessarily be made by one person at one time and by another person another time. With a purchasing agent in charge, a study could and would be made of the best methods employed by other cities and by large private corporations and put in force and effect. With the present method, it would almost be needless as it could not be effectively executed. I recommend it because I am firmly of the opinion that such an official, if honest and competent, would save his salary tenfold, and that it would result in economy as well as efficiency.

Cost of Municipal Housekeeping.

It has become as difficult a problem for the municipal housekeeper as the home housekeeper to keep down increased costs. The cities have added causes producing an increased cost of operation. Many of the materials which must be used and purchased by one large department have been raised from fifty to one hundred per cent in cost. All labor is earning and receiving more dollars for the same work because of the contraction of its value. Each city is faced with expanding municipal functions, abnormal municipal economic conditions, increased interest charges, mandatory state legislation, such as the workmen's compensation, the tax law on investments, election and other laws, and woman's suffrage, all of which add much to the tax budgets. Besides, the cities are faced with decreased revenue from various sources. The cities will receive a certain proportion of the income tax which may equal the loss of excise taxes. However, as the first payment thereof for 1919 will not come due until this year, the cities whose fiscal year expires with the calendar year must go one whole fiscal year without such tax to replace the loss of excise taxes. Next year we hope to reduce our budget to the amount of two years ago. It is a problem which the city officials and citizens must duly consider.

Assessments.

Accepted principles of taxation require equitable assessments which is often given greater consideration by municipal students than tax rates. Judging from the small number of complaints in reference to assessments the property owners are generally satisfied with present assessments. Of course, equality and efficiency in assessments is one of the most difficult things to accomplish.

The cities are now confronted with a new situation. The income tax law provides that the proportion of revenue which each city and town will receive from this tax will depend upon the amount of the assessed value of the city and county property, and not (as in the Excise law) upon the amount of income taxes paid in each city and town. The state retains one-half of this tax. The remaining fifty per cent is paid to the county treasurer of the several counties in the proportion that the valuation of the real property of each county bears to the aggregate assessed valuation of real property of the state. The county treasurer apportions the amount so received among the city and towns within the county in proportion that the assessed valuation of the real estate of each city and town bears to the aggregate assessed valuation of the real property of the county.

Therefore, counties which assess their real property at full value such as New York and Kings, will get more revenue than those whose real property is assessed at less than one hundred percent. The same rule applies to cities, and those which assess property at full value will get the maximum proportion of the tax, and those cities assessed less than one hundred per cent will receive a correspondingly reduced share of the tax. In order to receive the full benefits from this tax to relieve the tax burden it is necessary that all real property be assessed at true value. I believe that it would be advantageous from a financial standpoint and otherwise to do so.

City Historian

Kingston was the first city to have an official historian, the appointment of which was provided by an act of the legislature last year. We were fortunate in having our eminent and distinguished citizen, Hon. A. T. Clearwater accept the appointment. His occupancy of such position, which is without compensation, will place it upon a high plane for the future as well as the present from which lustrous service may be expected.

It is the duty of the city historian to collect and preserve material relating to the history of the city and to file it in fireproof safes or vaults. He shall also examine into the condition, classification and safety from fire of the public records of the public offices in the city, and shall call to the attention of the local authorities and the state historian any material of local historic value which should be acquired for preservation. Much historical material has already been obtained and he vaults at the city hall have been made to conform with the standard fireproof requirements. I have also called the attention of city historian to the desirability and propriety of our city having an official flag because of its long existence and the many historical events connected with it. I have also taken up with him the necessity of having the part Kingston and its citizens occupied in the world war properly recorded and a history therof prepared. Both of these important matters are now receiving his attention, and we can rest assured that very careful and proper thought will be given them.

Public Health.

There has been greater activity and advancement in public health than any other municipal function. In these days organization planning is required with national and state assistance. It has been the purpose of our local department to bring to bear those things which will insure adequate safeguarding of health and the general sanitary welfare of the community. The establishment of our city laboratory is a great help in our efforts to attain the desired result. Epidemics and all illness are costly to the individuals involved and the public generally. The work of this department, if properly carried out, not only prevents or controls the spread of communicable diseases, but helps to save the lives of the babies and children and helps to prevent poverty by the education of the public in the care and prevention of sickness, and of tuberculosis, and in the performance of field health work. Our department has adopted the uniform health budget and accounting system which will give better results.

Streets

The necessity for proper pavements in city streets has grown tremendously. Vehicle and motor transportation over such streets has increased to such extent as to demand it. Our board of public works built new streets to the extent of over thirty thousand square yards, resurfaced streets of over one hundred thousand square yards and oiled streets on over three hundred thousand square yards. The particular thing which has eaten up our street funds heretofore has been the heavy annual maintenance charge which the department is trying to permanently avoid in the execution of its plans and program.

City Departments

It would be impossible to narrate all of the accomplishments of the various departments. All are entitled to credit for the faithfulness and zealousness displayed. Errors and mistakes will creep in when the total work involves any magnitude, but no great amount of criticism can be made if they are minimized and unimportant in character. Our education department has raised the standard of education in our city. The water department has continued its satisfactory service without a general increase in rates for which the gratitude of the public is due. The police department has performed its function in the same effective manner as formerly. The fire department with its complete motorization and its two platoon system, is now one of the best equipped and efficient departments of any city in the state and is in position to render as a full maximum fire protection. The Charities department made a showing which evidenced efficient execution of its particular functions. The city could have had a proper and up-to-date code of rules which are consistent with the state civil service laws and rules, and it has so conducted local examinations as to merit in characterization of fairness in the administration of its important duties. The plumbing board worked earnestly and well in preparing a new code to supplant the former one which had become obsolete in many ways. All commissioners, city officials and employes are entitled to thankful commendation for effective service rendered.

Churches.

In considering our city generally much credit is due its present enviable position to the good and effective work and the present general breadth of view of our churches and the members of the clergy. Our city is unusually blessed at the present time with men of mentality and spirit who minister to the needs of the city and people as well as at the altar.

Chamber of Commerce

The co-operation of a large body of citizens is very important and necessary to the proper execution of civic and semi-municipal matters. There are as many duties to perform and plans should be consummated to bring forth a better and bigger Kingston which are not mentioned in the charter as those included therein. The Chamber of Commerce and its officials and members have offered and given its whole hearted help and assistance, and are entitled to have the same recorded in this message in recognition thereof.

Kingston

Our city has never stood in a better position in the family of municipalities to blaze its way onward and forward. General prosperity has prevailed and will undoubtedly continue. Our labor condition is good and our industrial workers are actuated by American principles and have intelligence to seek justice along proper road of fairness with reason. Let us all stand together for our city and our county, with respect to other political sub-divisions of government.

Bonded Indebtedness.

Our bonded indebtedness is not least in importance, but has been given so much publicity that it is merely a repetition here. The total bonded indebtedness at this time is $531,000 water bonds payable from water revenue and $402,500 other bonds, none of which was caused to be issued by present administration. Of this sum, $67,500 will be paid this year. I submit a complete statement as a part of my message.

Greetings.

This is the first day of the year, and in accordance with custom, but with a feeling which emanates from my deepest and sincerest heart, I extend to all happy greetings of the New Year.

Respectfully,
PALMER CANFIELD, Jr.,
Mayor.
